Summer may be as blistering as it can be but when we want to enjoy, the spirits are all charged up. First week of June is the time when children of Kharar, Kurali and surrounding areas are eagerly waiting for the camp to begin.

This year too, Mind Tree had a very overwhelming response from the parents of surrounding areas. They honed their dancing skills on popular numbers the best was they learnt synchronisation and picked up rhythm though children were all new to each other.

They imbibed the art skills with acrylics and other craft items. The parents were simply bowled over by the meaningful and fruitful learning experiences of their children.

July 31, 2015: Special Assembly on Guru Purnima:

Guru has a very special place in our hearts and very high pedestal in the society. The legacy has been passed down to each one of us by the socio-cultural arrangements. Here schools have played a pivotal role in imparting these values. Keeping this tradition alive we had a morning dedicated to the selfless devotion of the teachers, their sacrifices and their love for every child and their concern for every child's welfare. Outpouring of their respect was through lovely songs, skit and articles that they prepared on their own. It was very inspirational indeed.

August 15, 2015: Independence Day Celebrations:

The clear blue sky in the morning brought a refreshed whiff of one thing good for the entire day! Yes it was our 69th Independence Day. Our children transported us back to the era of freedom struggle, dressed up like Jhansi ki Rani, Chandra Shekhar or any of their likes, their voices loud and full of passion when singing the patriotic songs or reciting poems.

August 28, 2015: School Project & Exhibition Day "ANANTAM":

The children had been engaged very actively for quite some time, with the help of teachers and very enthusiastically prepared even the smallest of items. The catch of the day was enactments of the social studies projects on saving water and water resources, the emergence of various rivers, confluences tributaries and states that passed and sea gets its share of water. The working models were very eye catching and they captivated the audience for long. The punctuality of the parents was indeed appreciable and the time they spent with the children trying to know how the things worked was very encouraging. We look forward to the next year with an improved version of our performance.

September 04, 2015: Special Assembly on Shri Krishan Ashtami:

It is a continual reminder to each one of us that God came himself to make his men and women more strong in their thoughts and character so that their actions and deeds need to be spoilt with the evils of this earth. The Geeta shloakas took the centre stage as it was a cumbersome task to do it all, but the children surprised everyone with their clarity and diction. The senior children had wonderful renditions marking birth of Lord Krishna and Kabir dohas to pay tributes to the teachers for their hard work and efforts that are putting up with them.

September 12, 2015: Special Assembly on Grandparent's Day:

The enthusiastic grandparents of Nursery class students were overjoyed to come to the school of their grandchild. The tiny tots of Nursery A and B sections recited rhymes for their grandparents. It was a delightful sight to see the tiny ones up on the stage for the first time and perform so happily.

The surprise event of the day was the Grand mom of Day and Grand dad of the day Event. All the grand moms and grand dads took part in the dance round and the ramp walk along with the members of the school cabinet. The grand dad of the day prize went to Shri Gurmeet Singh Sandhu and the Grand mom of the day prize went to Mrs. Usha Sethi.

August 12, 2015: Workshop on CCE:

Teaching is more inclusive and produces better outcomes when teachers are on the same platform. It reduces disparities in homework and class work and also keeps the parent informed about the approach adopted in the classroom. Here arises the need that every teacher is made aware about the school's assessment and evaluation policies. They should also be made aware of the inferences that are expected from the child after having experienced the content in the class in variety of forms. They were also made aware of the assessing techniques in formative assessment and the grade point system in the summative assessments. The need for every teacher to understand and comprehend such divisions will help them to reduce anxiety and fears towards this evaluation system when they interact with the parents. This would rather help the child understand the need of being regular to school and taking every assessment seriously. Teachers doubts were addressed by the presenter Ms. Karamdeep.

August 18, 2015: One Day Capacity Building Workshop:

In regular course each one of us needs well-spaced and well guided reinforcement on operational techniques, instructional design, ever evolving class room practices and above all to share from each other and in interactive mode overcome our hesitations and also feel supported and well connected with each other so that every child can be well taught and well received. Ms. Shelly is truly a guiding force and helps our teachers all along in their educational journey by supporting and guiding them at appropriate times. It motivates the teachers and allays their apprehensions if any. This connect serves the school fraternity with great understanding and mutual trust. We look forward for such self-improvisation programmes from time to time.
