March 16 to 20, 2019 - Agra Ki Khoj:

"All journeys have secret destinations of which the traveller is unaware."

- Martin Buber

One learns more when one observes nature. Students of Grade VI went for a four-day expedition to Agra. They started their journey with a visit to the Bharatpur Sanctuary where they observed a variety of creatures. It was fascinating to see different varieties of migratory birds such as bar-headed geese from Mongolia, crane, green bee eater etc. Students were rapt to see a 20-foot long python, deer, Neel gai etc. Students learnt about the history of this place and got to know that this sanctuary was set up by the king of Bharatpur for hunting, and later on government converted it into a wild life sanctuary.

In the next three days, students observed the architecture and historical importance of famous places like the Taj Mahal in Agra, Sikandara and other nearby places.

'The four days were well spent, studying and learning about places, people and the way kings and the public lived in those times. This kind of teaching is the best learning experience we had till date.'
